

Michael Kyriakides has practised corporate and commercial law in Cyprus for over two decades. He has substantial experience in international and domestic dispute resolution and he heads the Corporate Litigation at Harris Kyriakides. He has represented various clients before Cyprus Courts and acted as an expert before the English Commercial Court, the London Court of International Arbitration (LCIA) and US Courts. He holds an MPhil from Oxford University.